Agribusines accounting software

Getting the most out of your farm is as much about planning as it is about farming. Agrimaster, a software program that has been written by farmers for farmers - easily handles your day to day accounts and cash book; but more importantly helps you plan ahead; creating budgets from the data to explore the 'what if' options and even intelligently interfaces with your bank.

Why use Agrimaster?

Agrimaster has been developed specifically for the agricultural industry and has been helping farmers manage their finances and budgets for over 34 years.

- The farming industry has seen more volatility than most – Agrimaster helps farmers measure and manage the ups and downs.
- Agrimaster is built around a four stage model which makes budgeting for risk management a logical and simple process.

Plan: The reporting from Agrimaster enables you to write realistic budgets and forecasts.

Do: Enter all the financial data into the Agrimaster software – simple and single entry.

Act: Act on this analysis by making informed decisions which reflect any changes in commodity prices - don't be afraid to change your plan if you need to. Best-laid plans almost always need tweaking.

Check: Regularly check this information against your actual data, and run monthly reports to see how you are travelling.
